

This election has been the dirtiest, most ruthless that I have seen in my life, shame on both parties, if you don't have enough issues to disagree on that mean something to the American people, why don't you ALL just stay home and stop embarrassing the American people!

One of the worst impressions the world gets of the USA is the lying and one sided arguments that are created by the people running for office in our great land. These positions were created so the people of the country could be served, not the other way around for your own benefit.
